NOVA SCOTIA.

Report from Halifax—Status of smallpox.

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, March 22, 1902.

SIR: I have the honor to report that for the week ended March 22, there have been 8 new cases of smallpox at this port with no deaths. Total number of cases on hand, 13; total number of cases since the outbreak of the disease, 44; total deaths, 6.

It was supposed that the disease was entirely stamped out, but during the past few weeks there has been a fresh outbreak in that portion of the city in which the railroad employees reside. They probably contract the disease at points along the railroad, and in this way reinfect the city.

At Dartmouth, a small village situated across the bay from Halifax, there have been 5 cases. These cases have all occurred in one family. The primary case was traced to a man who worked on board a steamer which had had smallpox on board. The steamer in question had been released from quarantine as disinfected.

Respectfully,

VICTOR G. HEISER,
Assistant Surgeon, U. S. M. H. S.

The SURGEON-GENERAL,
U. S. Marine-Hospital Service.
